A Tight Opening

Jahmyr Gibbs found a clear lane at Ford Field. He ran with the ball for 153 yards as Detroit beat Minnesota 19-15. The Lions came in at 4-2. The Vikings were 6-0 and had not lost.

Minnesota moved the ball early, but Will Reichard missed a long kick. Detroit then drove down the field. Jared Goff threw a 46-yard pass to Jameson Williams. A replay took away a touchdown, but Jake Bates made a short field goal, a kick worth three points. Detroit led 3-0.

The Score Stays Close

Minnesota answered in the second part of the game. Kyler Murray threw a short touchdown pass to Justin Jefferson. The Vikings led 7-3. Soon after, Pierre caught one of Goff's passes for Minnesota. This is called an interception, and it gave Minnesota the ball.

Detroit's defense kept fighting. Reed then caught one of Murray's passes, giving the ball back to the Lions. Gibbs ran 19 yards to help Bates make another field goal. Minnesota held a small 7-6 lead at halftime.

Gibbs Finds the Fast Lane

Detroit had a missed kick in the third part of the game. Still, its defense stopped Murray twice behind the line. Then Gibbs took a handoff up the middle. He slipped through a gap and raced 30 yards for a touchdown. Detroit moved ahead 12-7.

Minnesota fought back late. Murray threw an 8-yard touchdown pass to T.J. Hockenson, and the Vikings led 15-12. But Gibbs opened Detroit's next drive with a 17-yard run. Sione Vaki added three runs, and Goff found Williams for the winning touchdown. Gibbs kept running on the final drive as Detroit used up the clock. The Lions finished with a big 19-15 win and handed Minnesota its first loss.
